

Model Goals

- Seek growth in upward trending asset classes through funds built using Biblically Responsible Criteria
- Seek capital preservation during down trends
- Long term investment returns in excess of strategic asset allocation models

The Biblically Responsible Tactical Allocation Model is intended for investors who:

- Desire investing in a way which is driven by a Biblically Responsible outlook
- Wish to employ a proactive approach to investment portfolio allocations
- Seek diversification in their portfolio by investing primarily in Exchange Traded Funds (ETFs)

Model Thesis

- Financial markets can be categorized into broad groups called asset classes (stock, bonds, etc.)
- Uptrends and Downtrends - which can last for weeks, months, or years - are potentially identifiable at early stages through the consistent, ongoing observation of market-related statistics.
- Overweighting or underweighting portfolio allocations in light of market uptrends and downtrends may result in investment growth during market uptrends and downside risk control during market downtrends.

Model Strategy

1	Begin with a universe of Exchange Traded Funds (ETF's) built using Biblically Responsible Criteria
2	Assess current trend of each ETF
3	Reallocate portfolio holdings in light of current trends

Select Broad Asset Classes

1 Our process begins by determining broad asset classes to be considered in the model, and finding funds built for those asset classes using Biblically Responsible Criteria. Examples of broad asset classes are: U.S. Equities, International Equities, U.S. Bonds, etc.

Assess Current Trend of Each Asset Class

2 The Current Trend of each asset class is monitored. The model seeks to own or overweight asset classes that are in positive Current Trends and under-weight or eliminate those that are in negative Current Trends. The model may increase its cash position as a defensive measure.

Reallocate Portfolio Holdings In Light of Current Trend

Portfolio reallocations are made in light of current trends within the risk tolerance of the model. In situations where all asset classes may exhibit negative trends, the model will hold an increased cash/money market position until positive trends resume.
