DANIEL S. NAHIGIAN, MBA, CFP®
Financial Advisor

As a third-generation financial planner, one could say Daniel Nahigian was born for this role. Daniel is dedicated to helping his clients work towards their goals by helping them understand and take control of their finances. He works closely with his clients to meet their needs by giving them objective financial advice as they navigate life's major financial decisions.

Daniel Nahigian has been associated with Cetera Advisor Networks LLC for over 10 years. After graduating from high school, he attended Wheaton College in the western suburbs of Chicago, IL. He graduated in 2012 with a B.A. in Business Economics and a minor in International Relations. Following his graduation, Daniel returned to Los Angeles and joined his grandfather and father's financial planning team. He received his MBA in Financial Planning from California Lutheran University in 2016 and currently holds Series 7, 66, 51, and 24 securities registrations as well as his life insurance license. Daniel is a Certified Financial Planner® and a lifetime member of the Sigma Beta Delta International Honor Society for Business, Management, and Administration.

When not in the office, he can often be found in or around a swimming pool. He is a competitive swimmer and Daniel is also the head swim coach for a local high school. He sees many of similarities between coaching swimmers as they work towards an athletic goal and working with clients as they work toward their financial goals. In both circumstances, he believes his role is to develop a plan, encourage and reinforce that plan, and make adjustments as unforeseen challenges arise, always keeping in mind the goals that were originally set out to be achieved.

Daniel believes that his experience in the investment field and relevant education allows him to work with clients to help them identify possible risks, develop a strategy, and implement a financial plan that helps meet the client's long-term financial goals.
