December 3, 2018

NEWS

- The S&P 500 rose nearly 5% last week on hopes the Fed would not raise interest rates as much next year, the biggest weekly gain in seven years.
- The U.S. and China agreed to a tariff truce at the G-20 meeting, easing worries that the two largest economies are moving towards a cold war.
- Fed minutes signaled the Fed plans on raising interest rates at their December meeting.
- GM said it would cut up to 14,800 jobs and end production at three factories as it prepares for a slow down in demand for its vehicles.
- Fed Chair Powell said that interest rates are just below the Neutral Range, suggesting that the Fed may be close to ending its tightening cycle.
- Oil dipped below $50 per barrel last week for the first time in over 14 months on supply concerns.
- Bayer said it would cut 12,000 jobs and planned on selling several units including Coppertone and Dr. Scholl's.

ECONOMY

- Gross domestic product rose 3.5% in the third quarter, unchanged from the initial estimates at the end of October.
- New home sales fell 12% in October from a year ago, the steepest drop since December 2017, while inventories rose to a 7.4 month supply.
- Pending home sales in the U.S. fell 6.7% in October from a year ago as the rise in interest rates reduced the pool of eligible buyers.
- Consumer spending rose .6% in October from the previous month as rising incomes fuel consumption going in to the holiday season.
- Jobless claims rose 10,000 last week to 234,000, the third week in a row that claims rose.

DOW JONES INDUSTRIAL INDEX - The DJIA serves to provide a clear, straightforward view of the stock market and, by extension, the U.S. economy. The 30 stocks now in the DJIA are all major factors in their industries and are widely held by investors. As of December 31, 2008, The Dow® represented 27% of the float-adjusted market capitalization of the Dow Jones U.S. TSM Index, which provides near complete coverage of the U.S. stock market..

S&P 500 INDEX - The S&P 500 Index is a capitalization weighted index comprised of 500 stocks chosen for market size, liquidity, and industry group representation. The S&P 500 Index is constructed to represent a broad range of industry segments in the U.S. economy. The S&P 500 focuses on the large-cap segment of the market with over 80% coverage of US equities.

NASDAQ COMPOSITE INDEX- The Russell Midcap Index measures the performance of the mid-cap segment of the U.S. equity universe and is a subset of the Russell 1000® Index. It includes approximately 800 of the smallest securities based on a combination of their market cap and current index membership. The Index represents approximately 27% of the total market capitalization of the Russell 1000 companies.

RUSSELL 3000® INDEX- The Russell 3000 Index measures the performance of the small to mid-cap segment of the U.S. equity universe, commonly referred to as "smid" cap. It includes approximately 3000 of the smallest securities based on a combination of their market cap and current index membership.

JAPAN NIKKEI 225 INDEX – The Nikkei is a stock market index for the Tokyo Stock Exchange. It is a price weighted index, and the components are reviewed once a year. The Nikkei is the most widely quoted average of Japanese equities.

SHANGHAI COMPOSITE INDEX – The Shanghai Composite index is a market composite made up of all the A-shares and B-shares that trade on the Shanghai Stock Exchange. The index is calculated by using a base period of 100, the first day of reporting was July 15, 1991. The Shanghai Composite is a good way to get a broad overview of the performance of companies listed on the Shanghai exchange.

GERMAN DAX INDEX – The Deutscher Aktien Index, or DAX 30 is the blue chip market index for the Frankfurt Stock Exchange. It follows the top 30 German stocks on the electronic Xetra system that is used on the exchange. DAX indices are calculated using capitalization weighted index using the total return Laspeyres index for calculations.

LONDON FTSE INDEX – The FTSE 100 Index is a share index of the 100 most highly capitalized UK companies listed on the London Stock Exchange. The index is maintained by the FTSE Group, an independent company jointly owned by the Financial Times and the London Stock Exchange. Share prices in the FTSE are weighted by market capitalization, so that the larger companies make more of a difference to the index than smaller companies.

CITI WGBI EX-US - The Citigroup World Government Bond Index is a market capitalization weighted index consisting of the government bond markets excluding the US. Country eligibility is determined based on market capitalization and invest ability criteria. All issues have a remaining maturity of at least one year.

FTSE NAREIT COMPOSITE - The FTSE NAREIT US Real Estate Index Series is designed to present investors with a comprehensive family of REIT performance indexes that span the commercial real estate space across the US economy, offering exposure to all investment and property sectors.
