Market Volatility

Rising bond yields, Federal Reserve uncertainty, and escalating tensions on the Ukrainian-Russian border unsettled markets all week. The week opened with two successive days of deep early losses that were erased by furious, late-afternoon rebounds. The following two-trading sessions that started with strong gains that evaporated with late-session selling.

The most dramatic session was Monday, in which stocks ended slightly higher after hitting intraday lows that saw the NASDAQ fall 4.9%, the Dow shed 1,115 points, and the S&P 500 moved into correction territory. Technology was at the epicenter of the volatility all week as rate fears weighed on sector. Stocks rebounded strongly on Friday, managing to conclude a week on an upbeat note.<sup>4</sup>

Fed Readies Market for Rate Hikes

Last week's meeting of the Federal Open Market Committee (FOMC) left rates unchanged, though officials signaled short-term rates would likely be raised at its next meeting in March. As expected, the Fed also approved one last round of bond purchases, bringing quantitative easing to an end by March.<sup>5</sup>

Left a bit more nebulous were details on the pace and timing of reducing the Fed's balance sheet, a lingering worry of some investors. But Fed Chair Powell indicated that shrinking the Fed's asset holdings may occur at a faster rate than in past periods of balance-sheet reductions, such as in 2014 and 2017.<sup>6</sup>

TAX TIP

Natural Disasters Have Tax Implications, Too

No one likes to think of natural disasters and what might happen, but it's always good to be prepared. A few things may happen after a disaster when it comes to taxpayer relief.

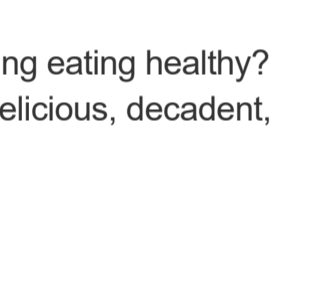

The first is that the IRS may give taxpayers more time to file and pay. If your address is in an area qualifying for IRS disaster relief, you will automatically receive more time to file your return and pay taxes.

In addition, taxpayers may qualify for a casualty loss tax deduction for people who have damaged or lost property due to a federally declared disaster.

HEALTHY LIVING TIP

A Healthy Side

Think you can't enjoy good flavor while also prioritizing eating healthy? Think again! This cauliflower "mac and cheese" is delicious, decadent, and easy to make.

You'll need:

- One head of cauliflower
  - Salt and pepper to taste
  - ¼ cup sour cream or Greek yogurt
  - ½ cup shredded cheddar cheese
1. Cut the cauliflower into small florets.
  2. Boil the cauliflower for about 5 minutes.
  3. Drain and return to the pot on a low heat setting.
  4. Add in the salt, pepper, and sour cream/Greek yogurt and stir until combined.
  5. Stir in the cheese until melted.
  6. Garnish with fresh parsley and enjoy!

WEEKLY RIDDLE

Two children are born in the same hospital (and in the same hospital room) in the same year, month, day, and minute. They have the same two parents, yet they are not twins and have no brothers. How is this possible?

Last week's riddle: A woman sailed into the Bahamas with her boat on the 28th of April. She stayed in the Bahamas for three weeks and then left in April. How is this possible? Answer: The name of her boat is April.
