Day 1

SECTION 1

SETTING GOALS

Every successful retirement plan has a successful beginning...the game plan. The amount you need to plan for starts with determining what your lifestyle will be. Will you travel? Will you stay home with the grandchildren? Will you start a new career or serious hobby? It's hard to hit a target if you don't have one! Some will be debt free. What is the best way to manage out-of-control debt? We are living much longer and retiring much earlier than our parents and grandparents. Our money will need to last longer, how do we plan accordingly?

SECTION 2

CONSIDERING THE COSTS

What was your income 20 years ago? What is it today? Inflation is a cost we must consider throughout our retirement years! Will our tax rate change? What lifestyle are you planning for? One must consider all costs when calculating how much money you will need for retirement. Are you prepared to retire? Studies show that most people think they will have enough money to retire on. The same research shows that very few have sat down to determine all the costs.

SECTION 3

NEST EGG SOURCES

You should identify your resources as: (a) nest egg funds, (b) emergency funds, or (c) special goal funds. Identify each source as taxable, tax-deferred, or tax-free. Know the rules of each source. A 403(b) is not the same as a 457. The IRA is not the same as a Roth IRA. What is the difference in a defined benefit plan and a defined contribution plan? Should you convert your Roth? What can we expect from Social Security? When is the best time to start taking Social Security payments? A comprehensive plan should consider the aggregate of all sources.

SECTION 4

ESTATE PLANNING

Wills, trusts, inheritance taxes, gift taxes, income taxes, capital gains taxes, probate, conservatorship, powers of attorney...what about all this? Estate planning is concerned with the living estate as well as how to pass your estate to the heirs as tax efficiently as possible. Can you control the estate for your heirs after your death? There are many strategies for control and efficiency concerning the estate. Will your estate be private or public when you pass? Should you hold assets jointly or as tenants-in-common? What is community property? Which trusts do you need and which do you want to avoid? Every situation is different based on your needs.

Day 2

SECTION 5

✓ TRADITIONAL INVESTMENTS

The most critical decisions you make during retirement could be your choice of investments to fund your “nest egg”. While stocks and bonds are the building blocks of traditional investments, there are many ways to arrange them. Mutual funds, exchange traded funds (ETF), unit investment trusts (UIT), and variable annuities (VA) are just a few. Know the difference between a professionally managed account and a brokerage account. Learn the difference between fixed and variable growth. Which investments have the best opportunity to reduce taxation and still meet retirement goals?

SECTION 6

✓ NON-TRADITIONAL INVESTMENTS

This section, will discuss “non-market correlated” investments. If used properly, non-traded, non-correlated investments can reduce your effective tax rate while providing additional diversification to your retirement portfolio. These investments are less liquid than traditional stocks and bonds, but can be a great alternative to market risk if used properly.

SECTION 7

✓ PROTECTING YOUR ASSETS

The unexpected peril is the greatest enemy of a good retirement plan. How do you protect your most important assets during retirement? Too much protection is expensive, but not enough can be a disaster. How do we calculate the right amount? Alternative Long-Term Care programs can be less expensive and easier to control than traditional insurance programs. Do you still need life insurance or are you already self-insured? What does Medicaid cover? How do you know if you are self-insured?

SECTION 8

✓ STRATEGIES

When taking income at retirement, it is important to maintain control of your nest egg and stay flexible in a constantly changing environment. Learn alternative strategies designed to maintain control of your money and maximize your efforts. You will benefit from the unique cost-saving ideas discussed in this section.
