Item 3. Disciplinary History

None

Item 4. Other Business Activities

Your financial advisor may recommend the purchase and sale of securities products in their separate capacity as a registered representative with Securities America, Inc., a full service broker/dealer, member FINRA/SIPC. Securities America, Inc. and Arbor Point Advisors, LLC. are affiliated entities. A portion of the financial advisor's time each week is dedicated to securities and securities sales. Your financial advisor may receive commissions when offering securities products to clients.

In addition to his work with Securities America, Inc., the financial advisor is engaged in offering insurance and insurance products as an insurance agent. A portion of his time each week is dedicated to insurance and insurance sales, and he can earn commissions when acting in this separate capacity.

Conflicts of interest may arise in the course of your relationship with your financial advisor between providing investment management services and your financial advisor's other business activities. These potential conflicts of interest are described below. To the extent we are unable to prevent actual or potential conflicts, we will take reasonable steps to mitigate them and, at a minimum, your financial advisor will disclose them to you. Arbor Point Advisors ("APA") is an affiliate of Securities America Inc. ("SAI"), a full service broker-dealer and member of FINRA and SIPC. SAI offers securities products and Arbor Point Advisors services. Your financial advisor is a representative of both the investment adviser and broker-dealer and may also have separate SAI brokerage relationships with investment advisory clients. As an investment adviser representative, your financial advisor owes clients a heightened standard of fiduciary care when providing investment advice than when acting as a broker-dealer registered representative.

As an investment adviser representative, your financial advisor receives a portion of the advisory fee paid by you (please refer to your advisory agreement for further detail). Participating in wrap fee programs or other advisory programs may cost you more or less than if you were to implement the strategy in a SAI brokerage account. Some factors that might impact the total costs to you include the frequency of trading activity, rate of commissions, other transaction-related compensation, or whether account fees, transaction fees or similar charges would be incurred.

As a SAI registered representative, your financial advisor offers brokerage services separately from any investment advisory services. When providing brokerage services, your financial advisor receives a portion of commissions for effecting transactions. Transaction based compensation may create a financial incentive for your financial advisor to recommend investment products based on the compensation received. In addition to commissions, some investment products may offer additional service fees (sometimes referred to as 12b-1 fees), typically based on asset value under management, related to personal services for investors and/or the maintenance of shareholder accounts. Your financial advisor may receive a portion of these service fees. For investment products offering additional asset-based payments, there may be a financial incentive to recommend those products over other investment products that pay less or do not make such payments.

Item 5. Additional Compensation

The financial advisor may have an incentive to join or remain with Securities America, Inc. through compensation arrangements over and above the compensation that may be received for selling products and services through Securities America, Inc. These arrangements may include bonuses, enhanced pay-outs, forgivable loans, business transition loans, and other forms of cash/non-cash compensation for meeting certain production levels.

With respect to investment advisory, brokerage, and insurance services, your financial advisor may receive bonuses or non-cash compensation relating to the promotion or sale of a program sponsor's products or services. These program sponsors may pay for training, education, or prospecting events such as seminars, for due diligence and travel expenses to these events, and occasionally they may provide business entertainment or gifts of nominal value to financial advisors.

Your financial advisor may receive referral fees for referring a client or prospective client to APA or a third party investment advisor.

While such compensation is typically limited and governed by SAI policy and industry rules, receipt of such compensation may give the financial advisory an incentive to recommend investment products.

Item 6. Supervision

Your financial advisor's activities are supervised by their OSJ Branch Manager and/or a member of APA's supervision team. The supervisor provides ongoing training and support to your financial advisor and answers questions about financial planning or providing investment advice to clients. The supervisor also reviews the financial advisor's activities through APA's client relationship management system, business submission reviews, email monitoring, and correspondence reviews. The person responsible for supervising the financial advisor's advisory activities, Adrian Headen, Regional Sales Supervision Principal, can be reached at 800-747-6111.
