

STARCARE

On average, women earn less than men, receive fewer retirement benefits and live longer, which means they are more likely to develop health problems and incur steep medical bills later in life. Furthermore, women are caregivers, often taking years off from a job to raise a family or care for an aging parent, further reducing their ability to achieve financial independence.

WE'RE SERIOUS ABOUT WOMEN & MONEY

FINANCIAL WELLNESS is a women's issue. Yet many women don't fully recognize how important their knowledge, decision-making skills and protection of financial resources are, particularly in unforeseen circumstances.

When fortune meets misfortune – everything can change. Divorce, disability, the death of a spouse or parent – these life-changing events are enormously stressful and have both immediate and long-term implications. And while the potential for heartbreak looms large, few are prepared to deal with the emotional dynamics that love, loss and money create.

Fortunes large and small are often filled with emotional complexity that can trigger fear, guilt, depression or reckless behavior. At STARCARE, we strive to empower women with the emotional support and clarity they need to make sound financial decisions.

Our largely female clientele has evolved over the last 35 years. Thanks to them we have learned that how our clients feel about money-related choices is every bit as important as what they know. We've also learned that women often make better investors – they understand budgeting, they're more confident about framing investment risk parameters, and they're more likely to acknowledge they don't understand something.

STARCARE understands the symptoms that accompany unexpected wealth all too well. We've developed a disciplined framework to help avoid the pitfalls that can undermine your success. Let's have a conversation.
