Item 3. Fees, Costs, Conflicts, and Standard of Conduct	B. What are your legal obligations to me when acting as my investment adviser? How else does your firm make money and what conflicts of interest do you have? When we act as your investment adviser, we have to act in your best interest and not put our interest ahead of yours. At the same time, the way we make money creates some conflicts with your interests. You should understand and ask us about these conflicts because they can affect the investment advice we provide to you. Here are some examples to help you understand what this means. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Some of our employees buy or sell securities identical to those recommended to or purchased for clients in their personal accounts. This practice results in a potential conflict of interest, as we could have incentive (to the extent possible) to manipulate the timing of such purchases or sales to obtain better pricing or more favorable allocation in rare cases of limited availability.</li> <li>• Some of the broker-dealers that we trade with allocate a portion of the commissions that our clients pay to be used by us to pay for research. These “soft dollar” arrangements help our firm make investment decisions, but they can have the effect of increasing clients’ transaction costs.</li> </ul> Conversation Starter. Ask your financial professional— <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• How might your conflicts of interest affect me, and how will you address them?</li> </ul> More information about conflicts of interest between us and our clients is available on Part 2 of our Form ADV, which is available at https://adviserinfo.sec.gov/firm/summary/105058. How do your financial professionals make money? GIG’s financial professionals receive a salary and may receive a discretionary bonus.
