Eric P. Zine Achieves Certified Divorce Financial Analyst® Designation

HINGHAM, Massachusetts, July 21, 2017 - The Institute for Divorce Financial Analysts™ (IDFA™) is pleased to announce that Eric P. Zine of Elm Tree Capital LLC, located in Hingham, Massachusetts, has earned the Certified Divorce Financial Analyst® designation.

A CDFA® professional is trained to provide financial advice on divorce cases and to educate clients on the financial implications of different divorce settlement proposals. The CDFA® designation is sponsored by the Institute for Divorce Financial Analysts. Certification requires successful completion of four exams in the course of study, continuing education in the field and a commitment to uphold the Institute's Code of Ethics and Professional Responsibility.

"The specialized IDFA™ education program provides a unique opportunity to further develop and hone my skills in complex financial planning matters, which is a great refresher," says Eric Zine. "Clients that face major life transitions, such as divorce, need to be assured that they can navigate their financial affairs with a trusted and competent financial planning professional. I am honored to assist those clients at a crossroads in their lives and take great pride in helping them achieve peace of mind."
