

“A market downturn doesn’t bother us. It is an opportunity to increase our ownership of great companies with great management at good prices.”

Warren Buffett
Chairman, Berkshire Hathaway

A Market Correction is an Opportunity

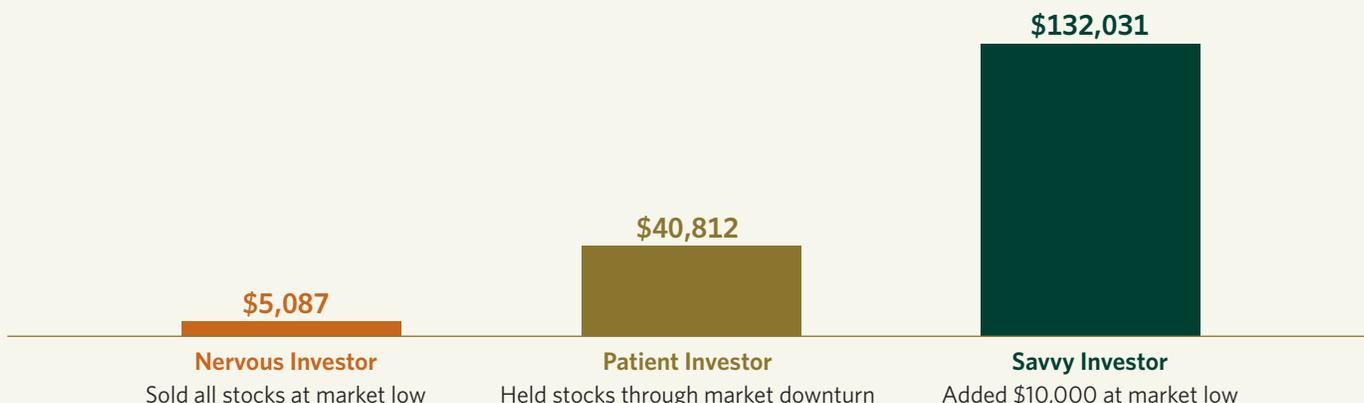

Market corrections are an inevitable and frustrating part of any long-term investment journey. How you react to them can greatly affect your investment results. This is illustrated below using the results achieved by three hypothetical investors who each invested $10,000 at the markets highest point prior to 2008 market downturn:

- Nervous Investor
Following the 2008 market downturn sold all stocks and invested in cash on March 9, 2009.
Ending value: $5,087
- Patient Investor
Steadfastly held stocks through the market downturn.
Ending value: $40,812
- Savvy Investor
Viewed 2008 downturn as an opportunity to take advantage of low prices. Invested an additional $10,000 in stocks on March 9, 2009.
Ending value: $132,031

If you are a long-term investor, when faced with a market correction do not react emotionally or abandon your investment plan. Be patient and, assuming your goals and/or time horizon have not changed, view the downturn as an opportunity to purchase good businesses at attractive prices.
