The Achieving a Better Life Experience (ABLE) Act allows people with special needs to create tax-free savings accounts that can be used to pay for any expenses related to the eligible individual's blindness or disability that includes transportation, personal support services, and health care, among other expenses.

However, there are serious limitations in the use of ABLE accounts. Special needs planners have used special needs trusts for years to accomplish similar goals. Which option should you choose? This pamphlet compares and contrasts ABLE accounts with the three types of special needs trusts and explains the pros and cons of each.

Comparing ABLE Accounts and Third Party Special Needs Trusts

issues	able account	third party snt	main difference
Who can use?	Only persons disabled before age 26	Any person with a disability	ABLE is limited; SNT can be used by anyone
Who can fund?	Anyone, including person with a disability	Anyone, except person with a disability (must use first party SNT)	ABLE can be funded by person with a disabilities own assets unlike the SNT
How many can a person have?	One	Unlimited	Person can only have one ABLE account but unlimited SNTs
Who can control?	Person with a disability and likely their legal guardian, conservator, or agent	Anyone except the person with a disability and their spouse	ABLE allows person with a disability to retain control while SNT requires someone else to be in charge
How much can be paid into per year?	$15,000 total (equal to annual gift exemption) if working, may add some earnings	Unlimited	ABLE limited in how much can be funded and SNT allows unlimited funding
Is funding gift-tax free?	Yes	No	ABLE can be funded gift-tax free; an SNT is subject to gift tax (if funded during lifetime)
Is there a cap on how much can be in account?	Yes, currently $100,000 limitation for SSI recipients and up to State 529-plan limitations	No	ABLE cannot be used for assets over $100,000 while SNT can be used for any amount
How is income taxed?	No income tax	Taxed as a non-grantor trust at highest tax rate	SNT will be taxed on income earned while ABLE account will not
What type of distributions can be made?	Only "qualified disability expenses" as defined by government	No limitation, except for certain disbursements may reduce SSI	ABLE has much stricter limitations on how it can be used than SNT
What is effect of paying for food and shelter?	No ISM penalty assessed for payment of food or shelter	Implementation of SSI ISM penalty	ABLE allows payment of food or shelter with no SSI penalty
Who inherits on death of person with disability?	Medicaid first, then can go to heirs	Person with a disability's named heirs	SNT has no Medicaid payback but ABLE does; some States do not enforce payback
