

The markets rose last week as hopes for an end to the pandemic continued as vaccines began shipping and a second pharmaceutical company approached approval for a 2nd vaccine. The S&P 500 jumped 1.25%^{1,2}. Additionally, congress moved closer to ending the gridlock on another stimulus package and avoiding a shutdown³. In negative news, unemployment rose with 885,000 new filings, up from the 800,000 that was expected⁴. We have a short trading week with the holiday's hitting at the end of the week. The markets close at 1pm on Thursday and are closed on Friday.

As we close out the holiday week, I wish you all a happy, safe, and enjoyable holiday. Hopefully, this will be one of the last holidays we will spend with minimal family interaction.

In this week's recap: A rollout for a COVID-19 vaccine led to a positive reaction from the markets; stimulus talks continue.

Weekly Economic Update

Presented by Charles D. Vercellone, ChFC, December 21, 2020

THE WEEK ON WALL STREET

Stocks climbed higher amid the COVID-19 vaccine rollout and an improving outlook for a fiscal stimulus bill.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average, which has lagged all year, gained 0.44%. The Standard & Poor's 500 picked up 1.25% while the Nasdaq Composite index surged 3.05%. The MSCI EAFE index, which tracks developed overseas stock markets, rose 2.44%.^{1,2,3}

STOCKS CLIMB HIGHER

In a week that celebrated the national rollout of a COVID-19 vaccine, market enthusiasm was tempered by worries of infection caseload and fresh economic lockdowns.

Investors turned their focus to the fiscal stimulus negotiations in Washington, D.C., with the hope that a relief bill may be the bridge that gets the economy over its near-term troubles until vaccine distribution grows more widespread.

These negotiations were not smooth sailing. When a compromise bill appeared to gather support, markets quickly moved higher, with the Dow Jones Industrial Average, S&P 500, and NASDAQ Composite all setting new record high closes on Thursday.⁴ Stocks slipped in the final day of trading as stimulus hopes wavered.

FED OUTLOOK ON ECONOMY IMPROVES

The Federal Reserve on Wednesday concluded its last meeting of the Federal Open Market Committee for 2020. Fed officials provided more detail for its monthly bond purchase program and reiterated their commitment to a monthly purchase of $120 billion of Treasury and mortgage-back securities until its inflation and employment goals are met.⁵

The Federal Reserve also raised its outlook on the U.S. economy. It revised its September forecast of a 3.7% decline in GDP in 2020 to a 2.4% decline, and increased its 2021 GDP growth forecast from 4.0% to 4.2%. It also expects unemployment at 2020 year-end would fall to 6.7%, substantially lower than its earlier estimate of 7.6%.⁶
