

WEEKLY ECONOMIC UPDATE

IN THIS ISSUE

ANOTHER QUARTER-POINT CUT

OIL PRICES JUMP

FINAL THOUGHT

The Week on Wall Street

Investors reacted to two major news items last week, one far more of a surprise than the other. The Federal Reserve did indeed make a rate cut, matching Wall Street expectations. Drone strikes on two of the world's largest oil fields brought a shock to the global oil market. At Friday's closing bell, stocks wound up with weekly losses after news broke that Chinese trade officials were heading home from the U.S. sooner than planned. The S&P 500 retreated 0.51% week-over-week; the Dow Jones Industrial Average lost 1.05%, and the Nasdaq Composite dipped 0.72%. In developed foreign markets, shares tracked by the MSCI EAFE index fell 0.31%.

Weekly Tip

If you are 50 or older, remember that you can take advantage of catch-up contributions in your retirement accounts. Under the current catch-up rules, you can contribute an extra $1,000 to a Roth or traditional IRA and an extra $6,000 to the typical workplace retirement plan.

Weekly Quote

"The strongest natures, when they are influenced, submit the most unreservedly; it is perhaps a sign of their strength."

-VIRGINIA WOOLF

Weekly Riddle

Up and down the stairs it goes, without moving any toes. It is found upstairs, downstairs, even in the hall; alas, it cannot move at all. What is it?

LAST WEEK'S RIDDLE: What has hundreds or thousands of ears, but can't hear a thing?
ANSWER: A corn field, as it is full of ears of corn.

OIL PRICES JUMP

As last week began, crude oil futures spiked in response to an attack that interrupted roughly 5% of the world's oil production. The value of West Texas Intermediate crude, the U.S. benchmark, spiked 14.7% in a day, starting at $8.05 and reaching $62.90 by Monday's close.

This was oil's biggest one-day leap since September 2008. Prices came down from there: Friday, WTI crude settled at $58.48.

Market Index	Close	Week	Y-T-D
DJIA	26,935.07	-1.05%	+15.47%
NASDAQ	8,117.67	-0.72%	+22.34%
MSCI-EAFE	1,913.69	-0.31%	+11.27%
S&P 500	2,992.07	-0.51%	+19.36%

Treasury	Close	Week	Y-T-D
10-Year Note	1.74%	-0.16%	-0.95%

Sources: The Wall Street Journal, September 20, 2019; Treasury.gov, September 20, 2019
 The market indexes discussed are unmanaged and generally considered representative of their respective markets. Individuals cannot directly invest in unmanaged indexes. Past performance does not guarantee future results. Weekly performance for the Dow Jones Industrial Average, Standard & Poor's 500 index, and NASDAQ Composite is measured from the close of trading on Friday, September 13 to the Friday, September 20 close. Weekly performance for the MSCI-EAFE is measured from the Friday, September 13 open to the Thursday, September 19 close. U.S. Treasury Notes are guaranteed by the federal government as to the timely payment of principal and interest. However, if you sell a Treasury Note prior to maturity, it may be worth more or less than the original price paid. Weekly and year-to-date 10-year Treasury note yield are expressed in basis points. International investments carry additional risks, which include differences in financial reporting standards, currency exchange rates, political risks unique to a specific country, foreign taxes and regulations, and the potential for illiquid markets. These factors may result in greater share price volatility.

Another Quarter-Point Cut

Wednesday, the Federal Open Market Committee voted 7-3 to lower the benchmark interest rate by another 0.25%, to a range of 1.75% to 2.00%.

While traders looked for signs of future guidance on monetary policy, little emerged from the latest Fed policy statement and Fed chair Jerome Powell's subsequent press conference. The updated dot-plot forecast showed that seven Fed officials anticipated at least one more cut before 2020, while ten did not

FINAL THOUGHT

So, what day last week saw the biggest loss or gain for stocks? Not Monday, when the market absorbed news of the Saudi oil field strike. Not Wednesday, when the Fed rate cut occurred. Instead, it was Friday, when the S&P 500 lost only 0.49%. It just goes to show that stocks may ride through seemingly market-moving events with little daily change.

THE RUDD COMMENTARY PODCAST

EPISODE 2:

Gentlemen Prefer Bonds

AVAILABLE NOW

THERUDDCOMPANY.COM/PODCAST