

DO I REALLY NEED LIFE INSURANCE?

LIFE
HAPPENS[®]
A NONPROFIT ORGANIZATION

September 2017

September is Life Insurance
Awareness Month

Let's face it. Most people put off buying life insurance for any number of reasons—if they even understand it. Take a look at this list—do any of them sound like you?

Do I Really Need Life Insurance?

1. It's too expensive. In the ever-burgeoning budget of a young family, things like day care and car payments and possibly student loans eat up a good chunk of the money each month, and a lot of people think that life insurance is just outside those “necessities” when money's tight. But two things: life insurance is often not nearly as expensive as you might think, especially when you can get a good policy for less than the cost of a daily cup of coffee at the local café, and well, if money's tight now, what if something happens to you?

2. That's that stuff for babies and old people, right? People of a certain age remember Ed McMahon telling them their grandparents couldn't be turned down for any reason and figure that's the target demographic for life insurance. Or, you might have been offered a small permanent insurance policy for your newborn, attractively presented with a cherubic infant on the envelope. The truth of the matter is that these are very specific insurance products—just as there are many insurance products for adults in their working years.

3. I'm strong and healthy! You eat right, you stay active, and everyone admires how grounded and centered you are. You passed your last physical with flying colors! That's GREAT! But you're neither immortal nor indestructible. It's not even that something could happen to you—though it could—so much as when you're at your strongest and healthiest, there's no better time to get a policy to protect your loved ones. If you fall seriously ill or suffer significant injury later, it will make it tougher to get that kind of policy, if any at all.

4. I have life insurance through my job. Many people are offered life insurance as part of their employee benefit coverage—and often, it's the first time they encounter life insurance and have no idea that a $50,000 policy, or one or two times their salary, isn't as much as they think it is. It sounds like a lot of money (and it is!), until you figure that it has to cover some or all the expenses for your loved ones in your absence. Plus, if you leave the job, it's typically the type of insurance that doesn't “move on” with you.

5. I don't have kids. Sure, kids are a big reason why some people get life insurance. But that's not the only litmus for needing protection. If there is anyone in your life who would suffer financially from your loss—your spouse or live-in partner, a sibling, even your parents—a life insurance policy goes a long way in making sure everyone's still OK even if something happens to you.

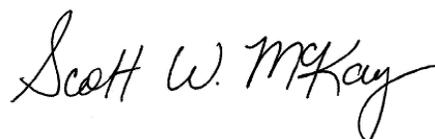

6. Life insurance—it's on my list ... eventually. There's no deadline on life insurance, no mandate from the government on purchasing it. Your parents may have never talked to you about its importance, and it's certainly not the most invigorating topic for conversation. But don't let your “eventually” turn into your loved ones' “if only.”

Do I Really Need Life Insurance?

We hope that you've found this guide interesting and informative. While tackling all of these financial moves at once may seem overwhelming, focus on small steps and establishing good habits. Remember, there's no better time than now to start taking control of your finances and make the most of your greatest resource: time.

We also want to offer ourselves as a resource to you, your friends, and your family. We are happy to answer questions about your current financial situation and future goals and we offer free consultations at any time. If you have any questions about the information presented in this report, please contact us. We would be delighted to speak with you.

Sincerely,

Scott W. McKay CFP®, ChFEBCSM

4Points Planning

10501 North Central Expressway Suite 300

Dallas, TX 75231

Phone: 214-390-9505

Fax: 888-400-3824

www.4pointsplanning.com

Footnotes, disclosures, and sources:

Securities offered through Securities America, Inc., Member FINRA/SIPC. Advisory Services offered through Securities America Advisors, Inc. 4Points Planning and Securities America are unaffiliated. Insurance products issued through many fine carriers. Member FINRA/SIPC. Neither the named representative nor the named Broker dealer gives tax or legal advice.

*Source: www.lifehappens.org

Opinions, estimates, forecasts and statements of financial market trends that are based on current market conditions constitute our judgment and are subject to change without notice.

This material is for information purposes only and is not intended as an offer or solicitation with respect to the purchase or sale of any security.

Opinions expressed are not intended as investment advice or to predict future performance.

Consult your financial professional before making any investment decision.

Opinions expressed are subject to change without notice and are not intended as investment advice or to predict future performance.

All information is believed to be from reliable sources; however, we make no representation as to its completeness or accuracy. Please consult your financial advisor for further information.