

BUILDING YOUR INSURANCE AND FINANCIAL FUTURE...ONE BLOCK AT A TIME

RONALD M. HOONHOUT

Now in his third decade in insurance, Ronald still thoroughly enjoys dealing directly with the client. He began his insurance career as an apprentice with another agency. He then joined his father's agency in Glendale, eventually rising to the position of office manager. Even later, upon his father's retirement, he acquired ownership of the insurance agency. Ronald has always preferred the independent side of the agency business because it enables him to place his clients with a carrier most beneficial to them.

After nine years as agency owner he foresaw the greater market opportunities available to the larger agencies, so he joined forces and merged with Shaw, Moses, Mendenhall & Associates in 2002. As it turned out, it was a win-win situation for both firms in that it enabled him to expand his client base and better serve his future clientele via access to different carriers, all with a personal touch.

He is married, has three children, and enjoys playing most sports, but given his height, his preference is basketball.
